

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL NATIONAL PENSION AND INSTITUTIONAL INVESTOR SUMMIT

Dallas, Texas

Thursday, November 29, 2007

KICKOFF SPEAKER

William F. Quinn

Chairman and CEO – American Beacon Advisors, AMR CORP.

William F. Quinn is chairman and CEO of American Beacon Advisors. Previously, he served as president since the firm was created in 1986. American Beacon Advisors manages approximately $64 billion in pension assets and short-term cash assets on behalf of its affiliate, American Airlines, and outside clients, including the $33.2 billion American Beacon Funds. Quinn also serves as president and trustee of the Funds, which he was responsible for founding.

Quinn serves as the chairman of CIEBA, an organization comprised of the nation's largest private pension funds that focuses on public policy issues affecting retirement funds. He also serves as a director of American Beacon Advisors, the American Airlines Federal Credit Union, the United Way of Tarrant County, and the Association for Financial Professionals. Quinn is also on the investment committees of both SMU's and the United Way of Tarrant County's endowment funds and on the advisory board of the Dallas Society of Financial Analysts and several private equity partnerships. He currently serves on the New York Stock Exchange's Pension Managers Advisory Committee. In 2004, Quinn was appointed by the Mayor of Dallas to chair a task force reviewing the City's employee retirement fund for civilians. In 2004, he received Institutional Investor's inaugural Award for Excellence in Investment Management among corporate pension funds. In 2007, PLANSPONSOR magazine named American Airlines the Corporate Plan Sponsor of the Year, and Quinn was named one of the 100 Most Influential People in Finance by Treasury & Risk Magazine, formerly served on the board of directors of Crescent Real Estate Equities, Inc. and the advisory board of the SMU's Cox School of Business, and is a frequent speaker on investment matters to industry groups.
